

Feeding Cats?

Protect Your Pets and Wildlife!

Feral cats can harm our environment by hunting birds and spreading diseases like feline leukemia, feline immunodeficiency, distemper, toxoplasmosis, and rabies.

These diseases are transmitted through contact with the saliva of an infected animal, posing a threat to both your pets and local wildlife.

TAKE ACTION

- If you're feeding wildlife, do so only during daylight hours.
- Remember to bring in food and water bowls at night (before dark).
- Clean and sanitize bowls overnight using a bleach solution, rinse well, and put them back out at dawn after day breaks.

Let's work together to create a safer environment for everyone!
